

HAVELOCK
INDUSTRIES

CONTINUITY FOR A COMPLEX WORLD

HAVELOCK CONTINUITY & RECOVERY SERVICES LTD.

Enhanced Field Services Employment and Sponsorship Agreement

Agreement HCRS-PAC-FMU3-2098-14

EMPLOYEE COPY - CONTROLLED PERSONAL RECORD

Field Measures Unit Three / Pacific Special Measures Region / December 2098

A*AGREEMENT SUMMARY

The signed agreement and schedules control; this page is an orientation aid

| Key term                  | Agreement value                                                                       |
|---------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Employment classification | Operational Specialist, Enhanced Field Services                                       |
| Assigned unit             | Field Measures Unit Three                                                             |
| Primary region            | Pacific Special Measures Region                                                       |
| Initial term              | Thirty-six months                                                                     |
| Clearance                 | H3 Operational, compartmented by assignment                                           |
| Base annual salary        | ACr 228,000                                                                           |
| Availability stipend      | ACr 42,000 annually                                                                   |
| Primary doctrine          | Life before evidence; capture before termination; containment before disclosure       |
| Governing law             | British Columbia, applicable Canadian law, NAA standards, and lawful emergency orders |

PLAIN-LANGUAGE PROMISE

You receive excellent pay, strategic medical care, augmentation maintenance, legal protection, equipment, and identity security. You agree to remain deployable, protect confidential information, submit to reasonable safety monitoring, return company property, and follow Havelock's capture-first use-of-force policy.

BODY AUTONOMY

Havelock may temporarily restrict an unsafe ability or system, but cannot repossess medically necessary parts of your body, commercially reproduce your biology or personality without separate consent, or abandon life-support maintenance because employment ends.

INDEPENDENT REVIEW

The Employee may retain independent counsel. Claims involving unlawful detention, bodily autonomy, criminal conduct, or denial of emergency care may proceed directly to an appropriate public court.

1-3

APPOINTMENT AND TERM

Parties, duties, duration, and operational availability

1. Parties

This Agreement is entered into between Havelock Continuity & Recovery Services Ltd., a wholly owned subsidiary of Havelock Industries, Incorporated, hereafter called the Employer, and the undersigned individual, hereafter called the Employee.

The Employee acknowledges that certain assignments may be performed on behalf of affiliated corporations, public agencies, confidential clients, intergovernmental authorities, insurers, medical institutions, or emergency partners whose identities may not be disclosed.

2. Position and duties

The Employee accepts appointment as an Operational Specialist assigned to Field Measures Unit Three.

1. Emergency response.
2. Civilian rescue.
3. Investigation of enhanced threats.
4. Recovery of restricted technology.
5. Apprehension and transport of hazardous persons.
6. Protection of witnesses, patients, and specialists.
7. Containment of anomalous systems or materials.
8. Support to public authorities.
9. Preservation of evidence.
10. Such related duties as are reasonably required during a Continuity Event.

The Employee shall use the minimum force reasonably necessary to protect life, complete lawful recovery, and prevent escalation.

3. Employment term

The initial employment term is thirty-six months beginning on the Employee's activation date. The Agreement renews automatically for successive twelve-month periods unless either party provides ninety days' notice.

Notice periods may be suspended during:

- An active deployment.
- A declared emergency.
- A medical stabilization period.
- An unresolved identity-protection action.
- A Continuity Event.
- An investigation involving loss of strategic equipment or protected information.

EMPLOYEE INITIALS

[ ] I understand that resignation notice may be suspended during an active incident, but that this Agreement does not authorize indefinite private detention or supersede public criminal law.

4-5

COMPENSATION, MEDICINE, AND AUGMENTATION

Pay, benefits, maintenance, and protected personhood

4. Compensation

| Compensation                     | Amount                                   |
|----------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
| Base annual salary               | ACr 228,000                              |
| Operational availability stipend | ACr 42,000 annually                      |
| Standard deployment allowance    | ACr 1,800 per deployment day             |
| Enhanced-threat allowance        | Additional ACr 1,700 per deployment day  |
| Extended-isolation allowance     | ACr 950 per day after the first 72 hours |
| Housing allowance                | Up to ACr 4,800 monthly                  |
| Professional education           | Up to ACr 36,000 annually                |
| Equipment allowance              | By approved operational requirement      |

Performance bonuses shall not be based on confirmed kills. Capture, civilian survival, evidence preservation, and infrastructure restoration may be considered in annual review.

5. Medical and augmentation coverage

The Employer shall provide Strategic Professional medical coverage, including:

- Emergency stabilization and private trauma care.
- Printed organs and replacement tissue.
- Neural rehabilitation.
- Prosthetic and cybernetic maintenance.
- Approved augmentation servicing.
- Power-stabilization treatment.
- Psychological care.
- Protected medical identity.
- Occupational longevity support.
- Dependent emergency coverage.

The Employee authorizes the Employer to maintain an operational medical profile sufficient to protect the Employee, teammates, patients, and the public.

The Employer may not remove or permanently disable an implanted life-support system solely because employment ends.

The Employer may suspend access to nonessential proprietary performance functions after termination where the Employer retains legal title, provided such suspension does not create an unreasonable risk of death or permanent injury.

EMPLOYEE INITIALS

[ ] I have reviewed which systems are owned, leased, licensed, medically protected, or subject to service restrictions in my Consent Ledger.

6-8

CONSENT, EQUIPMENT, AND IDENTITY

Emergency authority, ownership, and operational records

6. Emergency medical consent

When the Employee is unable to provide informed consent, the Employee authorizes Havelock medical personnel to perform procedures reasonably necessary to:

- Preserve life.
- Prevent catastrophic neurological injury.
- Stabilize an augmentation.
- Prevent uncontrolled ability discharge.
- Remove an immediate threat to others.
- Maintain safe transport.

Emergency authority may include temporary sedation, power suppression, neural isolation, chemical stabilization, or temporary disconnection of nonessential systems. A Consent Ledger must be created or updated following the emergency.

7. Equipment ownership

Equipment purchased or manufactured by the Employer remains Employer property unless transferred in writing. This includes:

- Armor.
- Power frames.
- Weapons.
- Drones.
- Vehicles.
- Communications systems.
- Artificial assistants.
- Specialist tools.
- Restricted software.
- Employer-funded augmentations specifically designated as leased equipment.

Ordinary medical restoration, replacement organs, and permanently integrated life-support systems become part of the Employee's protected person and may not be repossessed.

The Employee shall return recoverable Employer equipment following termination or reassignment.

8. Operational identity

The Employer may establish and maintain:

- A field name.
- An operational alias.
- A protected professional identity.
- Sealed address information.
- Restricted family records.
- Compartmented credentials.
- Temporary jurisdictional authority.

The Employee authorizes limited alteration, suppression, or separation of public records where reasonably necessary to prevent retaliation, preserve an investigation, or protect a dependent. The Employer shall maintain a recovery key allowing the Employee's lawful identity to be restored.

EMPLOYEE INITIALS

☐ I have selected an operational name and have identified any lawful identities that must not be merged, disclosed, or overwritten.

9-12

RECORDS, SECRECY, CONDUCT, AND CUSTODY

What is recorded, what is protected, and where authority ends

9. Monitoring and mission records

The Employee acknowledges that operational environments may be continuously recorded. The Employer may collect:

- Suit and equipment telemetry.
- Location data.
- Communications.
- Medical indicators.
- Ability-output measurements.
- Tactical decisions.
- Environmental sensor data.
- Evidence-handling records.
- Vehicle and weapons use.

The Employer shall not access private memories, unrelated personal communications, or nonoperational household archives without consent, judicial authority, or immediate necessity to prevent death. Mission records are Employer property, subject to applicable public-law disclosure and evidence requirements.

10. Confidentiality

The Employee shall not disclose Protected Information except through an authorized channel. Protected Information includes classified clients, protected identities, secure facilities, medical information, unreleased technology, active investigations, containment methods, AI vulnerabilities, operational aliases, sensitive witnesses or detainees, and anomalous-event information not approved for public release.

Confidentiality survives termination for twenty-five years or until formal declassification, whichever occurs first. Nothing in this clause prohibits a protected disclosure to an authorized inspector, court, regulator, ethics officer, or public-interest review authority.

11. Enhanced-person conduct

The Employee agrees to:

- Maintain required professional certification.
- Report material changes in powers or augmentation.
- Attend scheduled medical and safety reviews.
- Avoid unauthorized demonstrations likely to endanger the public.
- Follow lawful use-of-force policy.
- Preserve the life of a surrendering subject when reasonably possible.
- Avoid personal, financial, or romantic exploitation of detained persons.
- Report unexplained memory discontinuity, cognition interference, identity conflict, or sensory anomaly following an operation.

Reporting an anomaly does not by itself constitute evidence of misconduct or mental incapacity.

12. Capture and detention

The Employee shall transfer captured persons only to an authorized receiving institution or officer. The Employee may request medical review, legal-status confirmation, identity confirmation, independent safety assessment, and a receipt establishing transfer of custody.

The Employee shall not promise release, immunity, sentencing, or permanent placement unless specifically authorized. The Employer may restrict disclosure of a receiving site when patient safety, witness protection, dangerous technology, or public security requires confidentiality.

EMPLOYEE INITIALS

☐ I understand that confidentiality does not remove my right to request a custody receipt, legal-status confirmation, or independent safety review.

13-15

LIABILITY AND EMERGENCY AUTHORITY

Indemnification, Continuity Events, and protective medical holds

13. Liability and indemnification

The Employer shall defend and indemnify the Employee against civil claims arising from good-faith performance of authorized duties.

Indemnification may be denied for:

- Deliberate criminal conduct.
- Personal profit.
- Knowing violation of lawful orders.
- Gross negligence.
- Unauthorized lethal force.
- Intentional destruction of evidence.
- Deployment while knowingly impaired.
- Concealment of a material power or system defect.

Operational mistakes made under reasonable time pressure do not automatically constitute gross negligence.

14. Continuity Event

A Continuity Event is an incident designated by an authorized Havelock continuity officer as posing a substantial threat to human life, essential infrastructure, medical continuity, public identity systems, lawful government, regional stability, protected strategic assets, or large-scale emergency response.

During a Continuity Event, the Employee may be temporarily reassigned, recalled, relocated, or required to remain on duty beyond ordinary limits. The Employer shall make reasonable efforts to protect the Employee's dependents, residence, medical continuity, and legal identity.

15. Protective medical hold

Where a qualified physician determines that the Employee presents an immediate uncontrolled threat due to injury, infection, augmentation failure, cognition interference, or power instability, the Employer may impose a protective medical hold of up to seventy-two hours. Renewal requires review by a second qualified professional.

The Employee retains the right to:

- Medical information.
- Legal representation.
- Contact with a designated advocate.
- Review after stabilization.
- Challenge continued confinement.

EMPLOYEE INITIALS

[ ] I understand the emergency reassignment and medical-hold clauses, including the review, representation, and challenge rights stated above.

16-20

OWNERSHIP, COMMUNICATION, EXIT, AND LAW

Intellectual property, termination, dispute resolution, and public limits

16. Intellectual property

The Employee retains ownership of:

- Their natural body.
- Naturally occurring powers.
- Pre-existing inventions.
- Personal creative work.
- Personal identity and likeness, except as separately licensed.

The Employer owns inventions created primarily through Employer resources and within the Employee's assigned research duties. Mission observations, power measurements, and equipment performance data may be used for safety, training, and technical improvement.

The Employer may not commercially reproduce the Employee's biological tissue, genetic sequence, personality, or power without separate written consent.

17. Public communication

The Employee shall not issue official statements without authorization. The Employee may make ordinary personal statements provided they do not reveal Protected Information. Where an operational identity is publicly known, the Employer may offer media preparation, identity protection, legal review, and sponsor management. The Employee is not required to endorse a product, political candidate, or corporate position as a condition of field employment.

18. Termination

The Employee may resign subject to the notice and active-incident provisions of this Agreement. Upon termination:

- Operational credentials shall be surrendered.
- Employer equipment shall be returned.
- Medical continuity shall continue for at least twelve months.
- Necessary life-support maintenance shall not be interrupted.
- Protected identity arrangements shall be reviewed.
- Confidentiality obligations remain.
- Pending legal defense continues for authorized conduct performed during employment.

The Employer may terminate for serious misconduct, inability to perform essential duties, security compromise, or loss of required authorization.

19. Dispute resolution

Disputes shall first proceed through internal professional review. Unresolved matters shall proceed to an Alliance-certified employment and medical arbitration panel. Claims involving unlawful detention, bodily autonomy, criminal conduct, or denial of emergency care may be taken directly to an appropriate public court. The Employee may retain independent counsel.

---

20. Governing law

This Agreement is governed by British Columbia employment and medical law; applicable Canadian criminal and civil law; North American Alliance interoperability standards; Alliance enhanced-person and strategic-technology regulation; and lawful emergency orders applicable to the assigned operation.

No corporate policy supersedes public criminal law.

S-A*SCHEDULE A - FIELD USE-OF-FORCE STANDARD

Acknowledged with the employment agreement

| Standard                      | Required interpretation                                                                                                                                                      |
|-------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. Life safety priority       | Immediate threats to civilians, patients, teammates, and surrendering persons take priority over property, secrecy, and evidence.                                            |
| 2. Minimum necessary force    | Use the least harmful method that can reasonably control the immediate danger under the time available.                                                                      |
| 3. Capture before termination | Negotiation, restraint, medical stabilization, sensory isolation, power suppression, and technical disablement are preferred when practical.                                 |
| 4. Discriminate the threat    | Do not treat unusual biology, psychic ability, magic-like effects, artificial minds, or augmentation as automatic proof of hostility.                                        |
| 5. Lethal force               | Permitted only to prevent death, catastrophic injury, mass casualty, or an equivalent immediate threat when no reasonable alternative exists.                                |
| 6. Surrender and incapacity   | Protect a surrendering or incapacitated subject unless they remain an immediate demonstrable threat.                                                                         |
| 7. Evidence and recording     | Record force where systems permit; preserve the scene and explain any interruption, destruction, or emergency deviation.                                                     |
| 8. Unlawful orders            | An employee may refuse a manifestly unlawful order or one creating an imminent unjustified threat to civilian life, and must report through an alternate authorized channel. |
| 9. Medical aftercare          | Provide or request stabilization as soon as the scene permits, including for hostile or detained persons.                                                                    |
| 10. Review                    | Every use of lethal force, power suppression, involuntary sedation, or cognition-affecting technology receives independent review.                                           |

Employee initials

---

---

Reviewer initials

---

---

S-B

SCHEDULE B - MEDICAL CONSENT LEDGER SUMMARY

Complete one row for each major installed or supported system

| System / ability | Purpose | Owner / payer | Firmware / data access | Service / removal / exit terms |
|------------------|---------|---------------|------------------------|--------------------------------|
|                  |         |               |                        |                                |
|                  |         |               |                        |                                |
|                  |         |               |                        |                                |
|                  |         |               |                        |                                |
|                  |         |               |                        |                                |
|                  |         |               |                        |                                |

Emergency override disclosed: ☐ None ☐ Temporary suppression ☐ Temporary isolation ☐ Other:

Independent service provider or advocate:

Systems that must continue after termination:

Employee objections or limitations:

S-C

SCHEDULE C - EQUIPMENT RESPONSIBILITY RECORD

Complete before initial deployment

| Field                | Record                                                              |
|----------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Issuing authority    |                                                                     |
| Custodian            |                                                                     |
| Authorization        | Mission, location, target class, duration, and prohibited uses.     |
| Condition            | Starting state, ammunition, charge, consumables, and known faults.  |
| Telemetry            | What is recorded, who may view it, and whether it may be disabled.  |
| Recovery requirement | What must be returned even if the mission fails.                    |
| Loss response        | Audit, debt, pursuit, search, legal charge, or faction consequence. |

Issued equipment

| Item | Serial / identity | Condition | Authorized use | Return / transfer |
|------|-------------------|-----------|----------------|-------------------|
|      |                   |           |                |                   |
|      |                   |           |                |                   |
|      |                   |           |                |                   |
|      |                   |           |                |                   |
|      |                   |           |                |                   |
|      |                   |           |                |                   |
|      |                   |           |                |                   |

Employee assumes custody of listed equipment subject to the terms of the Agreement. Custody is not ownership.

Employee

Issuing officer

Date / station time

ACK*EMPLOYEE ACKNOWLEDGEMENT AND SIGNATURES

Do not sign until amendments and schedules are attached

I acknowledge that I have received and had the opportunity to review:

- This Agreement.
- The Field Use-of-Force Standard.
- The Medical Consent Ledger summary.
- The Protected Identity notice.
- The Equipment Responsibility schedule.
- The Confidential Reporting procedure.
- The Independent Advocate contact.

I understand that the Havelock employee portal reports an average review time of nine minutes. I also understand that average review time is not a requirement, and that I may request independent counsel or clarification before signing.

Employee legal name

---

---

Operational name

---

---

Employee signature

---

---

Date / station time

---

---

Havelock representative

---

---

Representative signature

---

---

Independent counsel / advocate (optional)

---

---

Amendment reference numbers

---

---

H*ACTIVATION CONDITION

FMU-3 operational credentials remain provisional until the agreement, any amendments, medical baseline, identity selection, and equipment custody record are complete.